

11/21/2025

Valen Cole

Education Models of the Future

This isn't your typical academic conference—and that's the point.

Join us for the first-ever Student-Led AI Symposium, where students aren't just participating in the AI conversation—they're leading it.

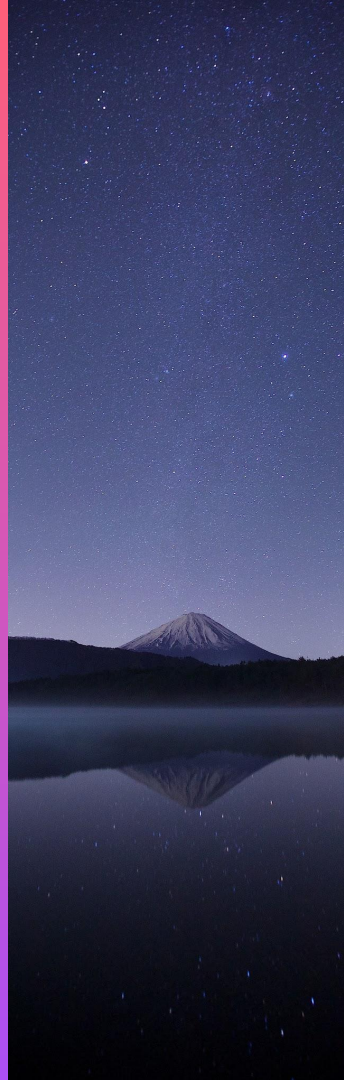

Through roundtables, live demos, and open dialogue, students will share how they're using generative AI in their learning, research, creative projects, and everyday lives. Faculty and staff are invited not to present, but to listen, engage, and learn.

Why Attend?

- Hear directly from students about how AI is reshaping their educational experience
- Engage in small-group conversations around ethics, creativity, social impact, and human-centered design
- Be part of a more open, honest, and inclusive dialogue around AI in higher ed
- Leave with new ideas, new collaborators, and a clearer sense of where we're headed
- This symposium is informal by design. Just real conversations about real experiences—hosted by the students living it.

Death of the Essay

Ludic Engagement

The Old Way

Memorization

The New Way

Adaptation
Integration

Connect with me

-Valen Cole

I am working towards a brighter, more connected future in which more people can benefit from humanity's greatest achievements.

